He added the gelding didn't travel as well as he had expected between the 1200 metres to the 1000 metres and approaching the 800 metres the gelding had finished its run. He was also of the opinion that WICKED ROMEO was maybe at the end of its preparation. Frew, the joint Trainer of KANGAROO JACK who confirmed the instructions given to the rider. Stewards determined that the riding tactics employed today was not a significant variation to that adopted by the stable in recent starts as Mrs Frew explained in its previous starts it had been the intention to be more forward but circumstances prevented them from doing so. Notwithstanding the explanation provided by the Frew stable, Stewards reminded Mrs. Frew of the stables obligations in respect of the rule relating to varying the tactics in a race.
